ABSTRACT

The share price is the price determined by the people who buy and sell shares. To reduce potential losses, careful investors evaluate a company's future prospects and look closely at market forces affecting stock prices before investing. The purpose of this study was to analyze the performance of the 2017-2021 LQ45 index in terms of CR, DER, ROE, EPS and sales growth on stock prices. Out of a total of 45 companies, 25 were selected according to the sample criteria. In this case, the secondary data uses multiple linear regression analysis. Research shows that the current ratio has a negative impact on stock prices, while the debt to equity ratio and sales growth have no effect and return on equity, earnings per share have an effect.

Keywords: current ratio, debt to equity ratio, return on equity, earnings per share, sales growth and stock prices.
